ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A map display device using an input unit for inputting a display scale, a memory for storing polygon map data, a drawing processing control unit for drawing a polygon map by loading polygon map data from the memory and a display unit for displaying an output from the drawing processing control unit, wherein the drawing processing control unit is provided with a function for determining a unit of a polygon map that should be drawn and drawing a polygon map of the determined unit.